Wine World Presents 2nd Annual Brew-HaHa Beer Festival in Grand Boulevard

Event takes place under festival tent at Wine World

Walton County, Fla., September 23, 2008 – The second annual Brew-HaHa Beer Festival will take place Saturday, October 3 from 1-4 p.m. under the festival tent at Wine World in Grand Boulevard at Sandestin. Come out and sample the largest collection of over 100 imported and micro-brewed beers from around the world. Taste 30 medal winners from the Destin Beer Festival's juried competition, including best-of-show. Great music by local favorites the Waco Ramblers and delicious BBQ and sausages prepared on-site by Wine World are included in the price of the ticket.

This year's festival also includes a Friday night kick-off with a special tasting with the brewery experts. This event allows beer-lovers a chance to meet beer representatives, sample special beers and learn more about their history and how they are made.

"This event was phenomenally successful last year and we are looking forward to having it again this year. Where else can you sample this many beers at that price? It's quite simply one of the best value beer festivals in the country," said Wine World Creative Director John Cross.

Tickets are $20 in advance, $25 day of event and includes a $5 rebate toward the purchase of beer, a crystal tasting glass and food. Call (850) 622-0802 for ticket purchases or go to www.chanswineworld.com. Tickets for the Friday night kick-off event are separate and cost $10.

"We'll have some of the world's finest beers from America's top micro-breweries as well as selections from Belgium, Canada, China, Costa Rica, Czech Republic and France, just to name a few," stated Patrick Barrett, Director of Operations for Wine World. "Combined with the tasty food from our own restaurant, it's going to be a great time."
